It was a very positive month of August for EdiliziAcrobatICA which, despite the summer period, continued to achieve important results.

From the point of view of equity performance, the stock maintained a very interesting growth trend, to the point of being mentioned several times on financial blogs and in the trade press, as one of those not to be missed and to be purchased. At the same time EdiliziAcrobatica, and in particular its founder and CEO, Riccardo Iovino, not even a year after its listing on AIM and a few months after Euronext Growth, were included in the list drawn up by Milano Finanza of the so-called 'paperoni italiani'.

The sponsorship operation of Torino FC, which will see EdiliziAcrobatica back the team's jersey sponsor for the entire 2019/2020 championship, has also brought new visibility and new business contacts to the company, confirming that the marketing strategy strongly desired by Anna Marras, partner and member of the Board of Directors to which this delicate sector also belongs, has proved to be successful.

"We are certainly satisfied with the results achieved this month," commented Marras and Iovino, "However, with the beginning of the autumn, we are ready to start again, setting new and ambitious goals that will promote the growth of the company and the title. All this while keeping the people who make up our group at the centre of our strategy. People who represent our true and most important wealth".
